

Chrysler Strike Nears Showdown Today With Injunction Projected

"Grievance Procedure," Yet to be Ratified, Would Operate Plants Pending Adjudication of Future Disputes in Corporation.

HUDSON CLOSED

Hudson and Reo Also Remain Closed; No Settlement in Sight—Murphy Makes Statement.

(By The Associated Press)

The Chrysler Motor Corporation's dispute with union leaders, major sore spot in the nation's strike-plagued industrial body, approached a showdown today.

Sixty thousand idle workers were involved in the corporation's projected injunctive proceedings aimed at removal of 5,000 strikers who have held its eight Detroit plants for a week.

Insistence by the United Automobile Workers of America on recognition as exclusive bargaining agency for 67,000 Chrysler workers precipitated the strike. Union officers were summoned to circuit court today to show cause why the sit-down strikers should not be ejected.

Chrysler's move came on the heels of an announcement that the U. A. W. and the General Motors Corp. had composed differences arising from the G. M. C. strike which ended February 11.

The fact, yet to be ratified by representatives of local unions, provided for seniority rights and other concessions but did not include union demands for a national minimum hourly wage and a 30-hour week. It arranged for a "grievance procedure" under which plants would be operated pending adjudication of future disputes.

Hudson, Reo Closed

Sit-down strikes arising from the U. A. W. demand for exclusive bargaining rights kept the Hudson Motor Company plants at Detroit and the Reo Motor Car Company plants at Lansing, Mich., closed. Ten thousand Hudson workers and 2,200 Reo employees were involved. There was no settlement in sight for either dispute.

Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan, to whom went much of the credit for settling the General Motors strike, discussed the Chrysler controversy at a conference with Detroit labor leaders and said "The general industrial conflict" was "serious and unfortunate." Previously he announced he would point out the "necessity of preserving law and order and of avoiding suspension of the institutions of Democratic government."

William S. Knudsen, executive vice-president of General Motors, said capacity operations would be required for four months to catch up on orders accumulated during the strike. The Associated Press index of industrial activity showed a sharp drop in automobile output last week as strikers halted Chrysler and Hudson production lines. Despite widespread strikes, industrial activity reached its highest point since November, 1929.

11,500 Idle at Akron
The impasse in the dispute at the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, O., persisted, keeping 11,500 workers idle. Strike leaders planned to push their fight for union recognition as sole bargaining agent through a general strike.

Chicago, the nation's second largest city, was plagued with 11 sit-down strikes and walkouts. Two non-strikers were injured and an oil-soaked car was burned in clashes with striking taxi cab drivers, who were among more than 6,000 persons idle in the city's labor troubles. A sit-down strike involving 1,800 Chicago mail order company employees ended after an agreement on wages.

So did a sit-down of 459 employees of the De Metz Inc. loop restaurants. A strike for higher wages by the composing room force caused The Daily News of Miami, Fla., to suspend publication. Typographical employees of The Miami Herald voted against a strike but the newspaper missed at least two editions while they argued the issue.

Kinsella Resigns at High School; Place Taken by Connick

Thomas Kinsella of 108 Downs street, instructor at Kingston High School for the past five years in commercial subjects, and coach of the track team, has resigned to accept a position in Brooklyn.

The popular instructor of economics, economic geography and bookkeeping, left Kingston Friday, for John Adams High School, where he will join the faculty Monday morning.

Replacing Mr. Kinsella is Loryne Connick of Central Valley High School who will be at Kingston High next week to begin teaching. Whether Mr. Connick will coach track in place of Mr. Kinsella, Principal Clarence Dumm of the local high school was unable to say today, but indicated the new teacher would be interested in athletics.

Successful Coach

Coach Kinsella won renown in the cross country sport by piloting the 1936 hill hikers through the most successful season in the history of the local school. Under the guidance of the departing mentor, the cross country squad compiled a brilliant record and emerged undefeated in five meets for a championship campaign. Coach Kinsella was beloved by squad members and pupils alike and his going to other fields caused deep regret among the student body.

Although well versed in the track and field sport, Coach Kinsella's greatest worth was the influence and advice that he dispensed to all whom he came in contact with. Student athletic leaders expressed deep concern over the departure of the likeable mentor, but what is K. H. S.'s loss is John Adams' gain. This column wishes to express appreciation for the cooperation extended and to wish Coach Kinsella much success in his new field of endeavor.

Coach Kinsella also handled the track squad in conjunction with Head Coach G. Warren Kias and students, alumni and townsfolk wish the popular instructor smooth sailing.

Fined $15 for Theft Of a Ton of Metal

Charged with petit larceny, in the theft of about a ton of iron and other metal from the property of William Hockmeyer at Ashbury, Harold Bogart, 21, of West Camp, was arrested Friday by State Trooper Arthur Reilly. He was arraigned before Justice Charles H. Bennett of Sapulpa, 14 miles away. Her husband, an attorney, put the winged messenger to work when Mrs. Young came here for an operation.

Two minors who are said to have been implicated with Bogart will probably be arraigned in Children's Court. The stolen property, which consisted of radiators, piping, cash registers, etc., were from the Hockmeyer house, which burned some time ago and had been stored in the yard. The officer said that Miller sold the entire lot in a junk yard for $5.

Carrier Plagued By

Tulsa, Okla., March 12 (AP)—Swift carrier planes are making frequent hospital reports on the condition of Mrs. Glenn D. Young to her family in Sapulpa, 14 miles away. Her husband, an attorney, put the winged messenger to work when Mrs. Young came here for an operation.

New Radio Bought

London, W. Va., March 12 (AP)—Rescue workers dug early today into tons of slate blocking the way to mine bodies in the blast-torn Macbeth mines. Nine of the 14 who lost their lives in the terrible explosion at the Hutchinson Coal Company shaft were found around—lying in funeral parlors or at their homes in the black Macbeth community.

Head High, Girl Walks Into Speeding Engine

Houston, Tex., March 13 (AP)—Engineer C. B. Peters peered out of the cab of his speeding locomotive and saw a pretty brown-eyed girl striding up the tracks into the path of his train.

He pulled the whistle cord and set the brakes. But the girl paid no heed. She held her head high a moment before the engine struck her, Peters said.

At an undertaker's last night Mrs. Magdalena Sanders identified the girl as her sister, Ann Kastner, a student nurse. She said the girl left a note, reading:

"Perhaps you will never see me again. I hope you will be repaid in some way for all the things you have done for me."

Ellenville Girl Dies After Crash, 4 Hurt

Marie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith of Ellenville and a granddaughter of the late Isaac Freer, one time well known Ellenville police officer, was fatally injured and four companions received injuries when the car in which they were riding was wrecked as the result of a blow-out on the Bridgeville, Sullivan county, hill, late last night.

The young people were returning home from the Ellenville-Monticello basketball game, played at Monticello, when the accident occurred. The injured people were taken to the Monticello hospital where Miss Smith died.

The others injured were Verna Kelder, who is reported to have been driving the car, Josie Lou Cole, both of Ellenville, Fred Decker and Horace Edward of Napanoch.

Hit Traffic Standard

The traffic standard at Broadway and Downs street was upset by a motorist this morning at 11 o'clock and damaged. On the police blotter, Joseph Smith, of 55 Elizabeth street, was charged with having hit the standard. There was no arrest, but instructions were to send him a repair bill.

Dr. Elihu Thomson Dies, Inventor of Welding Process

Swampscott, Mass., March 13 (AP)—Dr. Elihu Thomson, 83, of the General Electric Company, inventor of electric arc welding and contemporary of the late Thomas A. Edison, died today at his home. He has been seriously ill since January.

The famous inventor, who received his first patent on electric welding in 1886, would have been 84 March 29.

At his bedside when he died was his widow, the former Clarissa Hovey of Boston, and his three sons, Roland, Thomson of Schenectady; Malcolm Thomson of Swampscott; and Donald T. Thomson of Rye, N. Y.

Last fall engineers gathered in Detroit and Lynn to celebrate the 50th anniversary of Dr. Thomson's discovery of electric welding. At that time he exchanged greetings over a special wire with the two celebrations. It was his last public activity.

After his discovery of electric welding Dr. Thomson's name was given to the Thomson-Houston Electric Company, organized in 1883. In 1892 the company was merged with the Edison General Electric Company, forming the General Electric Company of today.

At his death, he was the dean of that company's group of scientists. For 15 years he was a director of the Thomson Research Laboratory in Lynn.

Pays $5 for Reckless Driving

Arnold Miller of 50 Hunter street, Kingston, was arrested on the Kingston-Saugerties road by Trooper Arthur Reilly, who charged him with reckless driving. He was arraigned before Justice Charles H. Bennett of Saugerties, who fined him $5, which was paid. Trooper Reilly said that Miller happened to drive by his house just as he was coming out, going at a high rate of speed with a truck load of produce. The trooper followed the speeding truck and finally succeeded in passing it and ordering the driver to stop, but had to speed up to 65 miles an hour before he could overtake it, he said.

Make Court Increase to 15 Permanent, Unconditional, Says Pittman, F. D. R. Ally

Hutton Brickyard to Open Monday; 110 Men to Be Employed

The Hutton brickyard on North street will open Monday morning, employing approximately 110 men, after having been closed since the last of January.

At the Hutton office this morning it was said that prospects look good for a busy summer, and the North street yard probably will operate six days a week from 7 o'clock in the morning to 4 in the afternoon.

A day's work at the yard is about 11,000 bricks, the office informed the press.

For the past several days, the brickyard bosses have been receiving applications from men seeking jobs.

"We prefer those with brickyard experience," one of the Hutton officials said today, "and are taking all the old bricklayers first."

Mayor Conrad J. Heislman asked the Hutton concern to consider local help, and the firm promised to do so, he said, insofar as hiring the type of men desired.

It is understood that some of the municipal workers with brickyard experience will rejoin the Hutton employ Monday, and also some men who have been on relief.

The open winter, with river transportation unhampered, allowed the Huttons to ship a goodly amount of their bricks to New York, that they made last summer, thus clearing the yard for another big season.

STAFF MEETING HEARS

TALK ABOUT SYPHILIS

At the staff meeting of the physicians connected with the Kingston Hospital, this week, Dr. L. E. Sanford, city health officer, spoke on syphilis, said the part the physicians should take in the public campaign to rid society of this disease.

After Dr. Sanford's talk, Dr. James S. Taylor of the city laboratory, treated the subject from the standpoint of laboratory tests, covering all of the technicalities pertaining to treatment of the disease.

Tuesday night at 8:30 o'clock in the municipal auditorium, there will be a public meeting, called by Mayor Heislman, for the purpose of discussing the campaign against syphilis, a national movement.

ONE-POUND BABY DIES

IN NEW YORK HOSPITAL

New York, March 13 (AP)—A mile of life prematurely born to Mr. and Mrs. Max Post Thursday, failed to overcome overwhelming odds, and died at 5:30 a. m. E. S. T. today in an incubator at a fashionable midtown hospital.

Weighing only 15½ ounces and so tiny she could be held in the palm of the hand, the girl was fed with a medicine dropper while four droppers worked to save her life.

About two and a half months premature, the baby was named Dorothy, by her parents before it expired. Post is a WPA worker.

Complete Plans for K. of C. Communion Breakfast Sunday

All plans have been completed, and everything is in readiness for the annual Knights of Columbus Communion Breakfast which will be held tomorrow morning.

Communion will be received during the eight o'clock Mass in St. Peter's Church, following which the breakfast will be served in the Governor Clinton Hotel. The Knights and their friends will assemble on Wurts street at 7:45 a. m., and march into the church at approximately 7:55. At the conclusion of the Mass the Knights will assemble and form an automobile procession from the church to the hotel.

The guest speaker will be the Hon. William F. Bleakley, gubernatorial candidate for governor of New York last year. Judge Bleakley is one of the foremost members of the Knights of Columbus in New York state.

Rev. B. Roth, council chaplain and past State Treasurer Patrick T. Murphy will complete the speaking program. Attorney William A. Kelly, council advocate, will act as toastmaster.

Pittman said an amendment limiting the number of justices to 15 would "remove the fear that succeeding administrations would continue to enlarge the court."

Grob and McGill

Awarded Verdicts

A verdict for plaintiff, Jacob M. Grob, of New York, in the sum of $247.98, with interest, was returned late Friday afternoon and also a verdict for Edward T. McGill of Kingston in the sum of $141.50. Both verdicts were against George H. Rogers and David Roth, defendants, in an action for goods sold and delivered.

A judgment against Samuel S. Levinson, one of the defendants in the present actions, had previously been taken. Arthur R. Ewig of Cahoon & Ewig, appeared for plaintiff and Daniel Hoffman for Rogers and Roth. Mr. Levinson was not represented by counsel.

The actions were brought by plaintiffs to recover for merchandise sold to Levinson and Rogers while they were operating a bakery in Kingston and against Roth who later took over the business.

Court recessed until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Spanish Protest

Nevada Senator First Administration Spokesman To Offer Any Change in the Roosevelt Court Program.

GIVES REASONS

New Blood Needed, Relieve Psychological Situation, Permit Reading of All Briefs.

Washington, March 13 (AP)—Senator Pittman (D.-Nev.), a Judiciary committee member supporting the Roosevelt court bill, proposed today that the suggested increase in the size of the Supreme Court be unconditional and permanent.

His proposal, the first from an administration leader for a change in the President's bill, would enlarge the tribunal to 15 members even if justices over 70 retire.

Mr. Roosevelt recommended an increase only in the event older justices remained on the bench.

Pittman said if his amendment to the bill was approved, he would offer a constitutional amendment to prevent the court from being enlarged beyond 15 members. He forecast it would eliminate some of the opposition to the President's bill.

Opposition Opens Monday

The Pittman suggestion was advanced as the Judiciary committee took a week-end recess in the hearings on the court bill. Senator Wheeler (D.-Mont.) will open opposition testimony Monday.

Demands for curtailment of the hearings came from both friends and foes of the bill. Some committee members on both sides already were expressing disapproval of repetition of arguments.

Pittman, discussing his proposal, said:

"I have no desire to induce the present judges to retire. In fact I would like to have the new members of the court have the benefit of the arguments and opinions of the present justices."

He noted that he had sounded out Attorney General Cummings on his idea during the hearings this week and that the cabinet officer had no objection.

Increase Necessary

"The court ought to be increased to at least 15 members," the Senator said. "There are three reasons: First, it would bring into the court new blood—men who are mentally fresh and not bound by and confused by prior precedents they may have established themselves."

"Second, it would relieve a psychological situation that exists in the court by reason of long disputes based on differences of opinion as to its policies. While it might not change every decision, it undoubtedly would change some."

"Third, it is evident from the facts presented by the attorney general that nine members can not possibly read all the briefs and records submitted to the court, and these should be read even where the court refuses to hear cases."

Pittman said an amendment limiting the number of justices to 15 would "remove the fear that succeeding administrations would continue to enlarge the court."

THREE DAYS IN JAIL ON INTOXICATION CHARGE

Vincent Bouck, 51, of 73 Chambers street, was sentenced to three days in the Ulster county jail this morning by City Judge Bernard A. Callahan because he could not pay a $3.00 fine for public intoxication.

Bouck was arrested by Patrolmen Ernest Boes and James Burns this morning at 1:13 o'clock near the corner of Broadway and West Strand.

Old Pistol Deals Death

Los Angeles, March 12 (AP)—A forgotten pistol of Civil War days, accidentally discharged by her four-year-old sister, Mary, killed Barbara Gatter, 3, Mrs. Viola Gatter, the mother, found Barbara lying unconscious yesterday, apparently hurt in a fall against her tricycle. It was not until Barbara was removed to a hospital, where she died, that the wound back of her ear was discovered to have been made by a bullet.

The family was preparing to move. Mrs. Gatter said the old pistol must have fallen from some article they were packing and attracted Mary's attention.

'The Terrible Meek' To Be Given Soon

On Palm Sunday evening, March 21, the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will present a religious drama, entitled "The Terrible Meek." This play is appropriate for the Lenten season inasmuch as its theme centers upon the cross of Christ. The play is unusual in the respect that it is presented entirely in darkness; at no time during the course of the play are the characters seen by the audience; only their voices are heard. The darkness is explained by the fact that the time is arranged for those hours in the agony of crucifixion when darkness covered the earth. The scene of the play is laid on Calvary Hill and the action involves three persons: Mary, the mother of Jesus, which part will be played by Mrs. Adam Thiel; Captain of the Roman Guard, played by Fred Spalt; a Roman soldier, played by S. Teiford in charge of Mr. Read.

For many years the heavy royalty on the play made it difficult to present. However, recently the author, Charles Rann Kennedy, has generously permitted its production without royalty. "The Terrible Meek" was written three and one-half years before the beginning of the World War; to be exact, during Holy Week, 1911. At first it caused a storm of protest to arise because of its straightforward peace message. On the day of production copies of the play were sent by the author to the various kings and presidents, leading statesmen, judges and other prominent men of all countries. Much fervid correspondence ensued, public and private, official and otherwise; with notes of the copies were returned the play was banned in London, Berlin and Petrograd. Within six months the hubbub began to subside as the significance and value of the play would act; readers, that it was as good as a sermon. It moved audiences, compelled them to think, with the result that it has been presented one way or another, some thousands of times, in all kinds of unexpected places and countries. Despite the London ban it was done in England under auspices beyond the jurisdiction of the government. Then came the war. There were not only many performances during the war. But there were some. With Armistice Day, the play began to breathe again rapidly and increasingly. For the past 19 years the "Terrible Meek" has been a regular Lenten offering. It is broadcasted from a number of radio stations in many parts of the world every Good Friday.

The Lutheran Church of the Redeemer is offering this play to the community and has experienced actors cast for its production.

Brass ornaments will remain bright indefinitely if a thin coat of white shellac is applied after they have been thoroughly polished. Ornaments so treated must be carefully handled, however, to prevent the thin coating from rubbing off.

A refreshing citrus cocktail may be made by combining equal portions of orange and grapefruit juices with bottled lime juice. It should be served chilled.

Maple sugar mixed with equal portions of chopped nuts makes a good topping for tiny biscuits to be served for tea. As soon as they are baked the biscuits should be spread with butter and served hot.

Soap lasts longer if it is well dried out. As soon as the soap is removed the wrappers should be discarded and the soap piled loosely in a dry place.

Convenient placing of cooking supplies and utensils in the kitchen will do much to lighten the work of preparing the family meal. Utensils needed for cooking should be placed near the stove. If it is possible, the china cupboard should be located near the sink so that dishes may be put away quickly once they are washed.

Small bath towels light in weight but firmly woven are easier for children to handle than larger, heavier towels. They are generally easier to launder, too.

Fresh ham is cooked in the same manner as any other cut of fresh pork. Allow at least 20 minutes per pound. Serve the ham with apples, sweet potatoes and a green vegetable.

Leftover mashed sweet or Irish potatoes may be fashioned into small cakes, rubbed with melted butter and browned for five minutes in the oven. Such cakes are good to use for holding creamed leftover vegetables, meats, fish or fowl. When they are colorfully garnished they are fit for a party.

Easter Style Parade Will Feature Vivid Colors And Feminine Frills

BEIGE IN VOGUE

This smart young American wears a trim, tailored beige wool suit and topcoat with paddock tan shoes and gloves, brown bag and Breton hat. Her plaid scarf is splashed with green. A dark gray tweed coat and hat top her escort's gray suit.

By ADELAIDE KERR

New York, (AP).—Vivid shades and feminine frills will make America's 1937 Easter fashion pageant the most colorful in years.

When smart women throng broad boulevards and candle-lit cathedrals from Maine to California on Easter morning, these are the things you will see:

COLOR. It has staged a comeback unrivaled in years. Though dark blue, beige, black and gray are still big costume shades, vivid blues, reds, greens and lighter hues appear in prints, plaids and accessories. Gay Dutch figures splash the printed frock worn under a sober coat.

A short box coat of red, gray and black plaid wool tops a black suit. Hyacinth blue and orange are linked together in scarfs and belts.

WHITE ACCESSORIES

White pique revers, gloves and halo hat add chic to this navy blue sheer wool suit-frock, designed by Nettie Rosenstein. Carnelian calf shoes and bag do the rest. The man's suit of medium dark blue striped worsted is worn with a gray Homburg hat.

to accent navy blue, while pastel pink or a new combination of yellow and beige appear with black.

SMOOTH FABRICS. Smooth-surfaced wools make coats. Thin sheer wools and crepes fashion frocks. Mannish worsteds are used for suits. Stripes are big news and plaids and prints important.

WIDER SKIRTS. Scores of frocks and coats step out with wider hemlines, falling in a circular flare from slim hips, though the straight line is also seen. Waists are slender, necklines lower and shoulders slightly squared.

SMART COATS. The fitted, slightly flared coat is ace-high in chic and will be seen in numbers. Redingotes are a fashion favorite. Short coats have come to town, too, pruned from last year's full swaggy lines to a straighter, box cut.

FEMININE FRILLS. Throat accents of Valenciennes lace, organdy flower circles or lingerie collars all of sparkling white—give a feminine touch to dresses. Colored embroidered medallions, bright scarfs, flower accents and belts (embroidered or finished with leather leaf plaques) add to the romantic effect of simple frocks.

YOUTHFUL SUITS. This spring's suits are trim and youthful in effect, many of them marked by shorter jackets, defined waistlines, high pockets and higher neck closings. Contrasting jackets of plaids, check or pastel wool tweeds are accented with bright twin nosegays, jeweled clips or yellow wheat heads.

STRIKING ACCESSORIES. Patent leather, suede and calf lead the shoe parade in such colors as black, navy blue, carnelian, red earth and paddock tan. Bags have handles—some of them dubbed "yardstick handles," long enough to be slung over the shoulder. Many are softly worked in fine leather, others shaped to resemble small traveling bags. Gloves are slightly longer, made of suede, dooskin and glace kid.

ROMANTIC JEWELRY. Massive bracelets and clips set with "aesthetic stones" such as turquoise, corals, garnets, topazes and seed pearls are going to be worn.

COLORFUL HATS. Off-the-face bretons, 1900 sailors, bonnets, tricorne and draped chiffon turbans in three colors are seen. Flowers are tucked under brims or massed on top to make flower-basket hats. Veils are still in the mode.

TRIPLE ALLIANCE COLOR SCHEMES. Last year's idea of using accessories all of one hue has been scrapped for a color scheme which often blends three. White is an important accessory color and some of the newer shades are much used.

This is the kind of costume you may expect to see on Easter morning. Black wool coat, black chiffon toque with a twisted drape of carnelian and beige, carnelian bag and shoes, beige gloves and beige and carnelian printed scarf.

MEN'S SUITS. Men's suits likewise reflect the vogue for color. Gray, steel blue and cocoanut brown worsteds are the favorites, many of the materials being striped or flecked with a little color. The double breasted coat is much in vogue.

CHESTERFIELD COATS. The Chesterfield, light guard's coat and topcoat lead the parade in masculine styles. Derbies, Homburgs and chamails gloves are listed as "right" accessories to the spring wardrobe of the man-about-town.

The approach of spring makes homemakers think of soiled chairs and rugs and to look for cleaning suggestions such as those given in Cornell bulletin E-262. Single copies are sent from the Office of Publication, Roberts Hall, Ithaca, New York.

Heavily weighted silk wears out quickly, so it is best to inquire at the store about the amount of weighting, or to burn a sample at home. If the ash holds its shape and shows the weave, the material is heavily weighted.

Canapes Lend A Smart Touch To Tea And Cocktail Parties

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Colorful canapes are a smart accent for the simplest of parties. Swept into popularity on the crest of the repeal wave—as an accessory to the resulting boom of cocktail parties—they gradually have come to fill many a hostess's party menu. They also have found wider use as appetizers to be served at the beginning of the meal.

The wise hostess has learned that when she serves canapes she must have a generous assortment of them—and also a plentiful supply. For it is surprising the number which will disappear when even a few guests are present.

Consequently she should plan on a per capita consumption of at least half a dozen for her guests. And if she has any doubts on their capacities she should double that amount.

Although cocktail napkins are generally passed when cocktails are served canapes should not be sticky, since they are meant to be eaten with the fingers. They should be small enough to be eaten in one or two bites, and they should be arranged on trays or serving dishes which are conveniently scattered around the room or rooms in which the guests will circulate.

Here are a few ideas for canapes which are comparatively easy to make:

Stirring Surprises

Just cooked shrimp in catsup and serve them on rounds of toast spread with mayonnaise and butter. Serve them with lemon juice and paprika.

Stuffed Eggs

Cut hard-cooked eggs into halves. Remove and mash the yolks. Add to the yolks some chopped cooked ham, tongue, anchovies or sardines. Mix in a lot of mayonnaise and lemon juice. Roughly roll the white cases and top them with pickle relish.

Cream Cheese And Aspic Canapes

(Makes 40 Canapes)
1 package salad gelatin (Aspic)
1 1/2 cups boiling water
2 tablespoons chili sauce
2 packages of cream cheese
1 teaspoon - scraped onion
A few grains of pepper
10 thin slices of bread
Dissolve salad gelatin in boiling water. Add chili sauce and chill until quite thick. Mash up cream cheese and add onion and pepper. Remove crusts from bread and spread with cheese. Then cover with thickened aspic mixture. Chill until gelatin is firm. Cut each slice diagonally twice to make 4 small canapes.
Three teaspoons of horseradish may be used in place of the onion.

Toasted Fingers

Spread bread fingers—cut into shapes about two inches long and one inch wide—with butter and salt paste. Toast. Serve while warm.

Frankfurter Rounds

Boil frankfurters for 15 minutes. Cool and chill for one hour or even overnight. Peel and cut the frankfurters into slices an eighth of an inch thick. Place on small toast rounds topped with dill pickles and spread with mustard. The result is a canape which is particularly popular with men.

CANNED CANAPES

Canapes tell the story of a well-planned tea or cocktail party. If they are both colorful and tasty they will be doubly appreciated. These are made of thin bread slices spread with cream cheese and aspic gelatin.

Tuna Tid-Bits

Make a savory thick cream sauce. Add tuna fish or crab meat and spread on toast fingers. Garnish with bits of pickles and ripe olives. Toast for about five minutes, and serve immediately.

Stuffed Tomatoes

If tiny tomatoes are obtainable, select those about an inch and a half in diameter. Peel them and scoop out the centers. Stuff with chicken, hard-boiled eggs which is not too moist, mince with salt and paprika and serve them perched on tiny toast rounds.

Cheese-Bacon Squares

Place thinly-cut cheese slices on two-inch squares of bread. Spread with mustard and minced onion. Top with bacon squares. Bake for about ten minutes or until they are sufficiently browned. Serve while hot.

Ham Pin-Wheels

Spread ham or fish relish, which has been thinned by the addition of mayonnaise, on biscuit dough. Roll the dough up into tiny pin-wheels and bake them for about ten minutes. Serve hot—with the tops brushed with butter. (These pin-wheels may be stored in the refrigerator until it is time to use them.)

Vogue For Rosebud Mouth Passes; Lips Now Rouged On Natural Lines

By ADELAIDE KERR
(Last in a Series)

New York, (AP).—Lip Lines, like hip lines, change in style.

The 1937 fashion in lips and lipstick is as definite as the silhouette of the new spring clothes. It spells naturalness, vividness and color harmony with costumes.

Time was when the little rosebud mouth was the vogue. Not so today. The lips of the modern beauty are rouged in their natural lines, with only a little trickery used to minimize their weak points and accentuate their good ones. Since comparatively little rouge is used on cheeks in the smart modern makeup, lipstick is generally fairly vivid. But it always should be chosen to blend with the natural coloring and harmonize with the shade of the costume.

Choose Shades Carefully

Generally reds tinged with yellow are chosen for brown or beige tones. Natural reds are worn with reds and greens, and red with a faint bluish cast are selected for blues, mauves and pinks. But smart women avoid like the plague the bluish reds which take on a sickly mauve cast.

REMOVES EXCESS

After rouging her lips, Miss Kirk cleans them over a fold of crepe paper tissue to remove the surplus and give them a smooth finish.

A short while after they have been applied and the too-rosy reds which give a false tone to the skin.

PROPERLY APPLIED

Edith Wick, radio singer, uses a fine pointed brush to apply her lipstick. She paints it on in a smooth even coat that extends well inside the mouth and leaves no broken line.

Edith calls attention to the mouth-care of the lips and the application of their rouge become doubly important. Lips which are rough and chapped or marked with a dead-dash application of lipstick can detract from the beauty of your face and the smartness of your new spring clothes.

Apply Cream At Night

To make the most of your lips and give them a smooth, satiny finish which takes an even coat of lipstick, massage cream lightly into them at night and leave a light film to soften them while you sleep. In the morning, after you have washed your face, rub a little cream over the lips and around the mouth for hours.

POLITICAL PUNISHMENT

We sometimes think political prisoners in America, after a change of party government, are rather severe, but in this line we haven't seen anything yet. Lawrence B. Simpson, the American sailor who was imprisoned in a German concentration camp for 18 months, until our government got him out and brought him back home, has been telling American audiences what he saw there.

Let it be acknowledged that Simpson had no business distributing anti-Nazi literature in a German seaport, as he admits doing. Any intelligent outsider who does that sort of thing in any autocratic foreign country is asking for punishment, and Simpson probably deserved part of what he got. But his punishment, though unpleasant enough, was mild compared with the treatment given 700 native offenders against the political and religious beliefs of the administration. He reports:

I was placed in solitary confinement in a cell seven feet square and fed nothing but bread and water. From my cell I could see down in the prison yard where inmates were tortured unmercifully in an effort to make them reveal the names of their friends.

One of the favorite methods of torture was to make the prisoners run until they were completely exhausted, and then beat and kick them for falling down. Another thing the guards liked to do was to make the prisoners lie down in the mud, with their hands shackled behind their backs, and the guards would whip every one that stopped before he was ordered to.

Somehow we don't seem to have thought of anything like that over here.

LAW-BREAKING BABY

Chicago lately has had a spell of enforcing automobile regulations, including the anti-tooting rule which forbids unnecessary use of the horn. Mrs. Rita Dubow left her 21-month-old son, Arnold, in the car while she went into the bank. When she returned, she was met by a stern policeman who said: "See here, lady! This child tooted the horn at me. It's a violation of the city code. He's making unnecessary noise. I'll have to give him a ticket." He did, and the baby's mother had to appear for him in traffic court. Many will say this is ridiculous. Some will think it's justifiable. Perhaps it depends on the attitude of the mother.

A friend tells of sitting in his car one day, on a business street, just behind another parked car in which was a woman and her young son. The child discovered the horn and started pressing it, making an insufferable racket. The mother read a magazine and said nothing. After this had continued several minutes, the man in the car behind got out, walked up to the lady in the other car, and asked her politely if she wouldn't please make the child stop tooting. The only response was a haughty and indignant stare. The lady was outraged at such rude presumption on the part of a stranger. Query: Should that lady have got a ticket?

SEA MONSTERS.

What it is about human beings that makes them so susceptible to the sea serpent delusion? We laugh at the early navigators for their superstitions, but no summer is complete without its story of contemporary, modern creatures of the sort. They are seen chiefly on the sea-shore, but some are observed far from the ocean. There was a Loch Ness monster in Scotland that had a two-year run. And there was a sea serpent observed at Sandusky, O., on Sandusky Bay and Lake, on the edge of Lake Erie itself.

The latest American sea serpent, rubbing the scales a bit, has recently been seen off Lubec, Me., by fishermen whose nets were disturbed by the thrashing of the creature. Their faith is such that no skeptic has yet tried to capture the intruder, but all have fled.

It is true that there are strange creatures in the ocean's depths that have ever been seen on land or in the upper water levels. Deep-sea explorers now go down in diving outfits with special cameras to get pictures of them for us. But no such sea monster as men are inclined to see and eager to report just a little off shore has ever been captured, identified or catalogued.

POKER O. K.

A weighty problem was settled by Sir Rollo Graham-Campbell, London police court magistrate, the other day. The Roundabout Club of New York was being prosecuted as "a common gambling house." The judge's decision hinged upon two questions. Is poker itself an illegal game? Does the presence of an illegal game in a club condemn the entire premises?

"No," said the judge to the first question. "Yes," to the second. Poker was cleared, but not the club. Unfortunately for its thriving business, it had housed the apparatus of two automatic gambling games which were purely "games of chance." That made it a gambling house and subject to a $500 fine and the destruction of the apparatus.

Poker, like a lot of other things, said the judge, is not wrong "per se." It all depends on where and why and how you play it. The judge didn't go into details, but perhaps sharing the winnings with the wife keeps it on the side of respectability.

That Body of Yours

Histidine Relieves Pain.

Despite the fact that the use of insulin will prolong the life of the diabetic and the use of liver or liver extract will prolong the life of the patient with pernicious anemia, it is only natural that these patients should grow tired of the continuous treatment. As you know diabetes and pernicious anemia were and are incurable ailments; insulin and liver supply the substances needed to keep the individual alive.

In a somewhat similar manner, the individual afflicted with ulcer of the stomach or ulcer of the first part of the small intestine has learned that by the use of a strict diet and alkalies, calmness of mind and no fatigue of body when eating, he can remain fairly comfortable—not too much pain or distress. But just as the diabetic and anaemic patient gets tired of insulin and liver so the ulcer patient often feels the desire to eat anything and everything anytime and anywhere whether he is rested or tired.

What may be a boon to these ulcer patients is now being used by many physicians in various parts of the world.

Dr. E. Feldheim in Medical Press, Paris, reports his experience with histidine in the treatment of 22 of these patients. In one series, no treatment except histidine was given; the patients were allowed to eat the ordinary foodstuffs except that spices were reduced in quantity. In another series the usual diet and alkal treatment was followed together with the use of histidine.

To each of the patients of both groups a series of twenty injections of histidine into the muscles was given. After the treatment had been followed for three or four days practically all the patients became free of pain. In spite of a usual history of prolonged and intense pain for many months.

After treatment for forty days an X-ray was taken. The films showed that the condition of the ulcer had improved in some cases but not in others.

"It was Dr. Feldheim's conclusion that although histidine alone may be extremely effective in relieving pain of ulcer it has little ability to cure the underlying process."

The point then is that just as insulin does not cure diabetes and liver does not cure pernicious anemia but relieves symptoms, similarly histidine, though not a cure for ulcer, relieves the pain and distress and makes life worth living.

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDEMER

SYNOPSIS: After two years of work and play in New York, Eve Memmery had come back to her 200-year-old farmhouse and orchard in Connecticut. Quiet, practical George Cleveland, a young fruit experimenter who lives nearby, and Uncle Henry, an old family friend, help her clean and move the antiques from the attic. Eve intends to rent or sell, marry, and live in New York. But the tendency to stay in her beloved old home is strong. Denny comes for the weekend and Uncle Henry moves in as a chaperon.

Chapter 15

Before The Fireplace

Denny came back downstairs, fresh from brushing and cold water, and demanded to help explore Hand-in-hand they went over the house. Denny's spirits were high; and in spite of her hard day's work Eve found herself rising to meet them.

"Isn't it heavenly?" he whispered, stopping to catch her in his arms as they went through the hall. "Isn't it like being married, just you and I alone in a house? It won't be long now, you'll see, sweetie."

"Not long now," she echoed happily.

They ate their sandwiches and milk on one of the old japanned trays, before the replenished fire. They held hands, toasted crullers as an experiment, kissed across the tray at odd times, began to roast apples and forgot them till they were crisp.

"The wood burns well," Denny said, assuming a competent air, after they had put everything away and come back to the fire. "Where did you get it?"

"George Cleveland brought it in. You know, he's really a pretty decent fellow. He helped us last everything; and turned in Adagio too."

"Sure, all the virtues," said Denny, with a note of jealousy. "Doing what I ought to have done if it weren't for this cursed poverty that makes one have to crawl to people."

"Denny, you idiot! If you had the Cleveland's money you'd no more put up beds and carry down furniture than the Queen of Sheba!"

Denny conceded the point, a hand in her soft glittering hair. Suddenly he began to laugh.

"Any way, it's something to have a girl who can get all the local nobility and gentry doing her chores the second day she gets here!"

"The first," said Eve impudently. Denny, sitting on his heels before the well-laid logs in the high square fireplace, sat back suddenly and shouted with laughter.

"All you have to be is a well-made mousetrap, and the mice come dropping in even if you're in the Berkshire wilderness!" he said. "But look here, sweetie, old downy will slap in the old boy really coming back tonight!"

"Mum," she said, the fat old lopsided, with its tawny brocade, at one side the fireplace where she remembered it. She was leaning back in her normally neatly set yellow hair sixed up wildly over her head, like a tumbled child's. She hadn't taken off the long light yellow apron; it would about her, outlining every shadow soft curve of breast and hip and knee. Her lovely slim bare arms, a light old downy line on the forearms, were locked behind her head, one long leg in its dusty brown gillie and ten stockings was thrust out, balancing her as she stretched. Denny's face lighted, and he stopped talking for a moment as if his eyes couldn't have enough of her. They had set a tall candlestick at each end of the mantel. He stood up and lit them, then dropped beside her.

Denny to Impress
 "Oh, you beautiful!" he said. "I'm going to stay right here, getting up to look at you from time to time."

"I say, Eve, what a good Christmas card we'd make—First Night in the Old Home—what?"

"Mind?"

"I'd be a Helen Hokinson New Yorker cover if you'd be the other half of the sketch. That's how far my object worship goes. Besides, I'm impressed. I didn't know you owned a full set of household goods in the best colonial style."

Denny was impressed. She'd forgotten he was a southerner. She remembered that he had never known much more about her background than the bad about his; ten, indeed, because Denny sometimes discussed with a scornful sneer of his mother's own lamentations over the things burned by Sherman. "I didn't realize you were an American."

"What did you think?"

"Thought you were second-generation Scandinavian," Denny said frankly.

"Because I have yellow hair that's natural? You can still find occasional throwbacks to pureaxon types in New England. Aunt Lisa always said—"

"Well, you said she baked buns for a living; that sort of nut me out."

Gay and friendly, the crowd sat down to Eve's dining room, Monday.

SHOKAN

Shokan, March 12.—A covered dish supper was served by the women of the Shokan Reformed Church to those attending the congregational meeting of the church Wednesday evening. A feature of the supper, which was attended by 40 persons, was a birthday cake in honor of Justus North, a member of the church board.

Dr. Hans J. Cobb of the village center ushered in two additions to the population Sunday evening with the arrival of a son, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Barley of Olive Bridge, and a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Lane of Bolleville.

Tuesday morning, at the residence of Mrs. Floyd Merrihew in Ashokan, a meeting of the Shokan Home Bureau local leaders was held for the purpose of selecting a bureau program for the coming year. Miss Everette Parsons, county demonstration agent, presided at the meeting and outlined the projects available for study by local members. The subjects tentatively chosen by the Shokan leaders were as follows: Grooming, Black Printing, Kitchen Conference, Foods for Entertainments and Selection of Pictures. It was announced by Miss Parsons that, some time during the summer, a canning specialist from the state college will attend a joint meeting of the Shokan and Shandak home bureaus for the purpose of demonstrating the most approved methods of canning beef and vegetables.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morris of Kingston were callers Sunday at the home of their former neighbors, Mrs. Aner Longyear and Miss Edna Longyear.

Shokan farmers were given an opportunity Wednesday evening, at Odd Fellows Hall, to learn about the benefits and provisions of the Agricultural Conservation Program for the current year.

March 13, 1881: Shokan M. E. Church stewards were elected as follows: Wilbur F. Hill, Clark North, Oliver Davis, William Castle and Egbert Matthews.

Harry Davis was numbered among the Kingston business men calling in the hub of the reservoir country Wednesday.

Mrs. C. A. Winchell attended the school for newspaper correspondents at the courthouse in Kingston today.

The Young People's Forum of Shokan and Mt. Tremper will meet in the Shokan Reformed Church next Wednesday evening.

Those good old names, "Shokan" and "Ashokan," have been variously spelled in days gone by: Revolutionary War records corrupt the names to Saucon, Shoken, Shokeken and Shehokunk. Olive town records as late as 1841 make reference to the "Ashokan Road." Incidentally, the first post office was called Caserville in honor of the father of the late Rev. Calvin Case, who operated the first tannery in Shokan.

The Rev. August Plaus, pastor of the Reformed Church, presided at the annual meeting of the church, held Wednesday evening. Reports were read for the consistory, board of trustees, Sunday school and Ladies Aid Society. James K. Dubois and Elmer Bedell were re-elected elders; Justus and Earl North were developed members of the board of deacons, and Homer Markie, Jr., Justus North and William Green were re-elected trustees. A rising vote of thanks was given Daniel E. Sampson in recognition of Mr. Sampson's long and faithful services as superintendent of the Sunday school. A social hour followed the conclusion of the business session.

School No. 8.

The regular meeting of the P.T.A. of School No. 8 was held Tuesday afternoon, March 9. The tea table was most attractive with St. Patrick's Day decorations. Both tea and coffee were served with sandwiches, small cakes and cookies. Mrs. Ediger and Miss Brennan presided.

The first half of the program, a short play, was presented by Grade 7A, with characters as follows: Switzerland, Evelyn Wolfersheim; England, Joan Kenney; France, Virginia Dreiser; Italy, Mary Bruckman; United States, Barbara Norton; Red Cross, Doris Evers; Joy, John Deegan; father, Rockwell Bowers; drummer, Glenn Knapp.

The second half of the program, a play, "Homework Blues," was given by pupils of Grade 7B: Mother, Elizabeth Mack; father, Alan Vogt; boy, Bruce Sawyer.

The programs were given under the direction of Miss Halloran, teacher 7B and Miss Osterander, teacher 7A. Mrs. Dieck, of Room 3, and the most parents present and won the attendance banner for the month.

During the course of the business session the president announced that School No. 8 was third highest in membership among the schools of the city, having enrolled 180 members to date. A list of new members and cabinet was discussed and it was voted to hold a fund sale in the near future to raise funds to purchase such necessities for the school. Mr. Mosher reported a very successful sale of seeds and a good sum realized with which to purchase athletic equipment.

The ladies who assisted Mrs. Niles with refreshments were Mrs. Kaprelian, Mrs. Kachigian, Mrs. Blyden, Mrs. Hicks, Mrs. Schantz, Mrs. Scholier, Mrs. Donovan, Mrs. Paulsen, Mrs. Nanki, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Law, Mrs. Schwanke.

A Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—The more we think about it the more excited we get about the proposal of Representative Gray, Pennsylvania Democrat, to amend the constitution to permit congress to select the commander in chief of the army and navy when called into service.

The constitution makes the President the commander in chief but the resolution of Mr. Gray would change this. When Mr. Gray was asked what all the shooting was about, he said:

"In case of rebellion, the people would decide who could order the soldiers to fire on them."

That sounded pretty ominous and we asked Mr. Gray if he thought there some time might be a rebellion.

"I introduced the resolution," he said. "That speaks for itself."

He said it was entirely his own idea that this organization was back of him. His proposed amendment reads:

"The commander in chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several states, when called into actual service of the United States, shall be elected or chosen by the congress of the United States, by secret ballot, two-thirds of each house concurring, from among the officers of the army not below the rank of major general, and with the advice and consent of such officers."

Besides others who might object to the proposition the navy would not like it so well since it does not seem to have a look in.

Flag

THEN again, there is the resolution by Representative Churn of Illinois asking a house inquiry into the reason for keeping in a murky corridor of the old state-war building the flag that tripped John Wilkes Booth and caused him to fall and break his leg after he shot President Lincoln.

Mr. Churn thinks it ought to go to Springfield or to a Lincoln museum in Washington where more people would see it.

Incidentally, the old Ford theater on Tenth street, off Pennsylvania avenue, where the flag was hanging when it caught in Booth's spur, draws a constant stream of tourists.

Sweepstakes

REPRESENTATIVE SACKS of Pennsylvania would wipe out sweepstakes lotteries in a bill to prohibit transporting the tickets interstate or even to distribute interstate any list of prizes drawn or awarded in a lottery that would just about end news stories of the family of seven shoeless children who seem forever coming up with $24,683.37 won in a lottery just as the mortgage is to be foreclosed.

TALKS TO PARENTS

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

"My child has no sense of humor. She doesn't appreciate 'Alice in Wonderland.'"

Having been brought up on Lewis Carroll's books, and having loved and laughed over them, many parents try them on their own children too young. They themselves probably read the books at a later age, but have forgotten the time when they did not know them by heart.

The humor of Alice's adventures generally does not appeal to very little tots. Here and there one finds an exception, but generally it is because the child in question has a mental development beyond his years.

Lewis Carroll was a mathematician, and his nonsense, though told to a child, is largely very logical and grown-up nonsense.

If the youngster shows signs of boredom when the books are first read to him or given him to read, they should be put away until a later date. If at eight or ten he cannot appreciate them, he may yet take to them at 14.

Of course there are children who never enjoy them. Whimsy is a very special kind of humor. Many people who are quite able to see a joke or a funny situation never develop a sense of whimsy. It is a great mistake for parents to label a child as lacking in a sense of humor just because the youngster does not have their particular appreciation of fun.

To lack a sense of humor is a misfortune amounting to a kind of mental deformity. Many children are given a real sense of inadequacy by being told that they are lacking in this important respect.

The best thing to do is to try to find and develop the individual child's own particular brand of humor.

Many states are carrying on a program of eliminating the narrow culverts on the highways. But it will be found that it is not possible to make the culverts wide enough for certain types of driver.

English slang offers much difficulty to the American amateur as, for instance.

Enthusiastic Girl: Isn't this a topping party?

Blase Boy: I'd be top hole if the music wasn't so dud, cos the grub's not bad, what there is of it, and the floor's good enough in pairs, and the girls aren't too daisy, only they dance as if their steering-gear was wonky.

Following is clipped. "The way some automobiles are driven reminds us that it is a good idea to look both ways before crossing the street."

Driver (of ramshackle old car): Can you tell me the quickest way to Main street, my boy?

Boy (looking the car over carefully): Sure. Take a street car.

Read It Or Not.

The top of a wheel travels faster than the bottom.

The Mrs. told her husband that she was sure she could drive. You've guessed it. She wanted to take the car alone.

Husband—So you think you can handle the car all right, changing tires and oil?

Wife—Oh, no, I couldn't even lift one. You know the man said they had 35 pounds of air in them.

In Russia a drunken truck driver drove through a red light and killed two people. He was immediately arrested. The second day he was tried. The third day he was executed. There are some very admirable things about the Russian government.

The car swerved across the street, mounted the pavement and crashed into the plate glass window of the big store. The driver, a young and pretty girl, climbed out of her seat, to be questioned by the stolid police sergeant.

Limb of the Law—Surely on a wide street like this you could have done something to avoid an accident. Sweet Young Thing (tragically)—Oh, but I did! I screamed as loudly as I could.

It goes without saying that the innocent bystander is a pedestrian.

Husband—The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world.

Wife—Then you come in here and rule the world awhile. I'm tired.

The authorities arrested a live-wire dancer in Boston last week because she wasn't properly insulated.

A dog will stay with a fellow when he hasn't got a cent. And so will a bill collector.

Frances—So you told Bill you loved him while you were dancing. Was he surprised?

Carolyn—Yes, indeed! It swept him right off my feet.

One Glorious Morning.

He burst into the factory, and his face was like a light. Although we found out later that he hadn't slept all night. Suspense was in his bearing, his quick, electric walk. His whole demeanor told us, he simply had to talk. There was laughter in his "Morning," a sparkle in his eyes. And hidden tears within his voice betokened glad surprise. He struggled hard for self-control, but could not hide his joy. His smile was full of sunshine as he boasted: "It's a boy!"

Doris—Did you ever have a lesson by correspondence?

Daniel—I should say I have! I never write to girls now.

What has become of the old-fashioned sixteen-year-old girl who got a good spanking if she wasn't home by 9 o'clock at night?

Poets are born—but nobody has ever found out why.

Touch

PATTERN 5812

Like to be "Queen of Hearts"? This amusing blouse of all-over heart design and fashionably full sleeves, is a charmer, and no end of fun to knit! See, the spaced hearts are simply openwork stitches outlined with blanket stitch of contrasting color. Presto!—the new Tyrolean effect. As a playful touch, add heart-shaped buttons and huckle. Worn with suit or matching plain knitted skirt, this blouse is "tops". In pattern 5812 you will find complete instructions for making the blouse shown and a plain knitted skirt in size 16 to 18 and 36 to 40; an illustration of it and of the stitches used; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman, Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

SPARKLING PHRASES WIN

Stranded among strangers at a party? Have a stock of gracious phrases at the tip of your tongue and carry off honors as an entertaining talker. "Don't you like this?" is a good opener. "Don't you like this handsome tea service?" you might say. Praise its "lustrous polish," its "admirable taste." "This reminds me" is another ice-breaker. Perhaps it's the cakes that remind you of the first wedding you went to. Tell how, "nervous, timid and shy," you watched with "absorbed attention," spoke in "awed, some whispers," had a "devouring desire" to exchange places with the little flower girl. Now that the conversation is under way, enrich it with vivid phrases. People of good taste avoid vulgarisms but enjoy the freshness and vigor of phrases like "to fly off the handle," "to high hat" meaning to snub, "to brush up on," "to tip off." You'll be admired, too, for tact and poise if you know the gracious phrases etiquette requires. "It's sweet of you to want us," "I do appreciate what you did," "This was a treat for me," "I'm so sorry I can't come," "I hope we will meet again soon." Pleasing phrases are coins which buy favor for you. Our 40-page booklet, 1500 USEFUL PHRASES, lists the charming, friendly word combinations you need in your every-day contacts. Phrases for face-to-face and telephone conversations, for business and social letters. Send 15c for our booklet, 1500 USEFUL PHRASES to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 109 West 19th street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

FASHION FANCIES

New York UP—The "jigger" coat is fashion news this season. It is the short, box coat of finger-tip length that's so practical to wear when long coats are unnecessary.

Paris UP—A girdle of lacquered red and green straw tops a black silk jersey dress. A small toque made of the same straws is worn with the dress.

New York UP—Tulips, pansies and lilacs bloom in all-over designs on new Easter handkerchiefs. The handkerchiefs, which come in a profusion of colors, have narrow colored borders.

New York UP—Bright-colored alligator bags are being featured in a number of New York shops. The bags come in red, green, blue and even a mustard yellow to match the new spring suits.

New York UP—Here's a new idea for your chiffon handkerchief. Take two of about the same size—in colors that harmonize—and twist them in turban-fashion, to fit your head.

Paris UP—Worth details a carload of silk flowers for double duty. The ribbon-tied carload is worn around the neck of an evening dress like a choker. Released from the neck it may be draped over the right shoulder with its bow-tied ends at the left hip.

Paris UP—Lingerie fashions a number of day and evening frocks. The thicker the lining the smarter it is. A Hahn frock in black and white gingham has a bodice lined up the front with red gingham. Matching red gingham is used for the skirt.

MODES of the MOMENT

Contrast Spells Spring Chic

Contrast in jacket and skirt is one of the spring's favorite fashion notes. This suit combines a black wool belted jacket, having the new high closing, with a skirt of black, red and white checked wool flannel, tucked to simulate an umbrella's seams. It is worn with a white Ascot scarf and a straw Breton hat faced with black patent leather, designed by Howard Hodge.

MARIAN MARTIN FROCK AND JACKET WILL PROVE A DOUBLE ASSET!

PATTERN 9112

If your budget refuses to "budge" in the matter of extensive wardrobe replenishment this spring, insist at least, on a frock with matching jacket, and be sure to make up Pattern 9112, for it will repay you with its chic, flattery, and countless wearings! Admirably styled to give the average-sized matron slenderness, it's also a boon to the size forty-six, who will realize a world of gracious flattery in its height-giving lines. A glance at the frock itself tells you sleeves and yoke are cut in one, for simplicity. Other parts of frock and jacket are equally simple to cut and fit together. Make it up in triple sheer, a soft flat crepe or printed silk, and you'll have the added joy of wearing the jacket with other frocks. Complete Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9112 may be ordered only in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 6 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

BE BEST DRESSED IN TOWN! Send for our Spring MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN BOOK and see its eye-catching collection of easy-to-make clothes! Styles that stand out in a crowd and have that made-just-for-you look. Becoming outfits for every age—every type—every occasion. Gay frocks, blouses, suits, fabric tips! 9112

Don't think you have to wait until Easter to get those huge lilies which take their name from this season. They are usually available throughout the year.

A small round container is usually best for the centerpiece when you have only four to eight guests. If your table is long, a similar container may be used.

Let's go to town —at home!

NO TELLING what tomorrow's weather may be. It fools the best forecasters. But we do want that chintz for the windows. We do need a carpet sweeper, a new percolator, and a new end-table in the living-room. And we don't want to slosh around rainy streets to hunt them.

Problem: How to thwart the weather man.
Simple enough!

Let's sit down by the fireplace and read the advertisements. Here it's comfortable and snug. We'll take the newspaper page by page, compare prices, qualities, brand-names. Tomorrow, rain or shine, we'll head for the store that has what we want, and be home again in a jiffy.

"Buying at home"—through the advertising columns—gives you wide selection, more time to decide, and satisfaction when you decide. Make it one of your pleasant habits!

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

By Robin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Jack Lyons is the key man on the Warner lot. He has nothing to say about story purchases, production problems or release dates, but without him—or an assistant who understands his system—the studio couldn't look up at night or open in the morning.

He is the key man, literally. More than 6,000 locks on the studio grounds will respond to his grand master key. He carries in his head, as well as on a card index, the combinations of several hundred safes and film vaults, and he is the man the stars and players seek when they have forgotten or lost the key to their dressing rooms, lockers or cars.

Keys By Hundreds

About his compact new office are high, shallow cupboards in which are sliding panels, each holding a hundred keys. When Pat O'Brien leaves the key to his private locker at home, as he did recently, and has important guests to entertain, Lyons is hurriedly called.

From one to six keys are reported lost each working day. Men lose more keys than women and are more impatient if kept waiting for duplicates. Kay Francis and Bette Davis have installed private locks on their dressing room closets and from time to time nearly all players do the same. The women want to protect jewels and furs which they cannot wear to the set.

There have been epidemics of petty thievery in studio dressing rooms from time to time. When this happens Lyons moves in with a whole new set of locks and master keys. When Ruth Chatterton's studio bungalow was burglarized, some years ago, nothing more valuable than a box of cigars was missing, but the locks were changed anyhow.

Police Studio

By 7 o'clock each night the studio is locked up tightly, except for the back lot where production and construction may continue 24 hours a day. Whatever business is transacted after that hour must come through the single, constantly policed side gate. Every office on the lot is inspected each hour during the night.

Lyons spends hours are spent unlocking brief cases for New York executives who have lost their keys en route, and in fitting new keys to ignition locks for players' cars.

Lyons has been on the lot since just before a studio was there. He looked up the first sheds built on the new grounds. At first he had 150 keys to handle. Now he has 6,000.

His own office door is controlled by his own master key. When he comes to the studio without this, as he has been known to do, he goes to a secret hiding place where he has a spare master key. So far the spare has always been found in place.

Plan Celebration
St. Patrick's Night

St. Patrick's night has for many years past been selected by the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Church as the date for its mid-Lenten entertainment and dance. The rigors of the Lenten season are lightened in order that there may be some social celebration of the feast day of the great Irish saint.

This year the festivities which will be held at St. Mary's Hall on Wednesday evening, March 17, will consist of a floor show to be provided by the dancing classes of the Cashin Dancing School, and of the Weyhe Dancing School. In addition there will be Irish jigs by the Reilly boys, two clever youngsters of the parish. Murphy and Spurling will entertain with dancing and acrobatic numbers and John Long will render Irish songs.

The committee under the leadership of Edward Gillen and President Gustav Kegel have been busy arranging a suitable program for the large crowd which usually attends these annual gatherings. Following the floor show there will be dancing and refreshments. Two orchestras will provide the music for dancing. Ted Riccobono and his orchestra will play for the modern dancing and Avery's orchestra for the old-fashioned dancing.

Peck Hearing Put Off to March 17

A hearing which was scheduled to be held before County Judge Frederick G. Traver in the Theodore Peck, 3rd, matter on Thursday of this week has been adjourned until March 17, at 1:30 o'clock. Peck's mother recently was appointed a commission of the person for the young man and this action of the court is being attacked by Peck's wife who contends she had no notice of the matter prior to the appointment of the commission.

The appointment of his mother as a commission of the person of Peck was made by Judge Traver after a Jury found young Peck "unable to manage himself." It is claimed there is no estate.

Jurors Excused

Jurors serving at the March trial term of supreme court have been excused by Justice Harry E. Schirck until Monday morning at 10 o'clock when the term will be resumed.

Writes 3 Hit Shows
But He Won't Talk

PLAYWRIGHT

Maxwell Anderson might be called Broadway's poet for each of the three plays he has running this season is written in verse.

By GEORGE TUCKER

Feature Service Writer.
New York—Looking more like a Berlin butcher than a playwright, Maxwell Anderson, forty-six footer of the Palladium, has three dramas at once on Broadway. But some critics have been unkind enough to say he would have been wiser to write one really good play.

Nevertheless all three plays are making money.
The first to get produced was "The Winslow Boy," starring Katharine Cornell. Then came "High Tor," a fantasy which has as its locale Anderson's own neighborhood in the Hudson Palisades near New York. Its star is the youthful Burgess Meredith, enthusiastically hailed by some critics as "the Hamlet of 1936."

Finally came "The Task of Kings," an interpretation of the Macbeth tragedy which took place in 1881, not far from Vienna.

Tactless to Reporters

All of these plays are written in verse, as most of Anderson's later pieces have been.
Of all successful Broadway playwrights, he is by far the most reticent. He shuts up like a clam when one of his rare interviews is arranged. When put to questions, he usually answers himself, he tends to inter- and obliquely answers questions, and comes at the dramatic bidding

A Pennsylvanian by birth, he became a school teacher and eventually a reporter. Then he collaborated with Laurence Stallings on an early war drama, "What Price Glory," which won both of them enough fame to satisfy a dozen playwrights. In all he and Stallings wrote three dramas.

A speedy worker, Anderson does all of his composing in his hand. He is a sure craftsman and seldom changes a word after it is written. He believes in verse as the ideal medium for the stage.

Teacher's Son

The Anderson manner near Haverstraw, N. Y., is augmented with a dash little but in the forests nearby, and it is to this retreat that Maxwell escapes when too many guests cluster up the landscape. He prefers to work there, too.

Already a Pulitzer Prize winner, he is being touted as a possible competitor this year.

Before becoming rich in the profits from such successes as "Mary of Scotland," "Both Your Houses" and "Elizabeth the Queen," this charming son of an Atlantic City clerkman studied at Stanford University and contributed pieces to west coast and New York newspapers.

He is a courteous and tireless worker, even a play goes into production. When put to questions, he usually answers himself, he tends to inter- and obliquely answers questions, and comes at the dramatic bidding

Harold Lloyd's Laugh Appeals To 10-Year-Old

BIRDS-EYE VIEW

Harold Lloyd and Brian Bell, Jr., whose father is an AP man, spotted the studio from a window, then plunged into a long talk on movies.

By BRIAN BELL, JR.
Ten-Year-Old Hollywood Correspondent for The Freeman.
Last in a Series.

Hollywood—The thing I like best about Harold Lloyd was that when he laughs he really laughs. I interviewed Mr. Lloyd in his bungalow on the studio lot.

I asked him how many pictures he had made.

"That I can't answer," he said, but his press agent said the figure was somewhere between the 500 and 600 mark.

I asked him how long he had been making pictures and he said: "I am what you would call an old timer. I have been in the business 20 years."

Looks Young

When I first saw Mr. Lloyd I did not recognize him because he did not have glasses on. I had only seen him on the screen and he never appears in pictures without glasses, or I should say rims for they have no glass in them. Then, too, he looked much younger than I expected to see him. He seemed much too young to have been in pictures so long.

He told me that on his son's birthday he asked the boy what sort of picture he would like to see and he said that he wanted something different and one of his young friends said he knew just the thing—a western. Mr. Lloyd got hold of a western and showed it for his son and his friends without having previously seen it.

"It had everything—shooting, lynching, roping people on horses," Mr. Lloyd said. "Everybody in the room looked like they were going to cry," he said. So about the middle of the picture he put on the last reel and the 'kids' didn't know the difference.

8 Kisses From Ginger

I told Mr. Lloyd that I had interviewed Miss Ginger Rogers. He said that he had an experience with Miss Rogers. Ginger staged a program for the benefit of flood relief and she had had some dolls she was auctioning. The bidding went up and Cary Grant said he would bid higher if Miss Rogers would throw in a kiss. Miss Rogers agreed to this and the bidding went soaring.

Mr. Lloyd was finally the top bidder and got the doll and expected to collect the kiss later. But the camera men rushed in and set their cameras. There was only supposed to be one kiss but there turned out to be seven or eight. Mr. Lloyd said, "because you know how the photographers are, they want pictures from all angles."

I asked Mr. Lloyd how many times he jumped in the pond in "The Milky Way." He said five times. "Is that all?" I asked.

"That was enough," he said.

PREVIEWED

Today

Broadway: "Champagne Waltz." Paramount's leading film of the present time comes to the Broadway in a blaze of song, spectacle, humor and well-written dialogue. Starring Gladys Swarthout of the Metropolitan along with Fred MacMurray, the production is an extravagant and tuneful presentation of both classical and modern music. The romance of an opera star and a jazz band leader is unimportant compared with the melodies, the dances and the settings of this magnificent musical. Jack Oakie is at his best in the leading comedy assignment and the dancing of the famous Veloz and Yolanda is a standout part of the film. Others in the cast are Ernest Cossart, Herman Bing, Vivienne Osborne and Frank Forest.

Kingston: "Stolen Holiday." Based on the famous French Stavisky case of several years back, this is the story of a money manipulator and how his plans almost cause a revolution and affect the financial structure of the world. Miss Francis, in the starring role, is the unfortunate heroine of the piece, and innocent, unsuspecting person who goes through the whole film in a tragic and noble manner. In fact the star's portrayal is almost too noble, too pure and too sacrificing. Look the screen's leading sufferer. Kay Francis outdoes herself in this one and suffers long and well and right nobly from start to finish. Her cast includes Claude Rains, Ian Hunter, Allison Skipworth and Alexander D'Arcy. A First National production directed by Michael Curtiz.

Orpheum: "Polo Joe" and "Wildcat Trooper." The peculiar humor of Joe E. Brown is to be enjoyed at the Orpheum in "Polo Joe," the film of a boy who talked his way into a polo contest and who cared for horses as little as they cared about him. "Wildcat Trooper" is the associate offering with Kermit Maynard.

Tomorrow

Broadway: Same.

Kingston: Same.

Orpheum: "Three Cheers for Love." Here's an above average musical with Eleanor Whitney and Robert Cummings featured and with such lesser lights as Roscoe Karns, Billy Lee, John Halliday and William Frawley in important assignments. The production is a nice mixture of dancing, singing, romancing and comedy. The last chapter of the serial "Custer's Last Stand" will be shown and the first chapter of a new Dick Tracy series will begin.

Lead is finding new use as a material for outdoor signs and markers. The metal is permanent, does not stain adjacent materials and needs no polishing.

High School News

Tuesday afternoon the salesmanship class of Kingston High School, which has for its purpose the study of current topics through an audience with speakers on various subjects, was addressed by Attorney Roger Loughran on the topic, "Getting Along with People."

In introducing his topic, the speaker stated that one of the best tests to give oneself is to see how one gets along with the individuals he meets.

"Human nature is very much the same. After all, we are members of one large family. People react to the same situations."

The attorney enlarged on the idea of a common meeting ground, giving as an example the everyday comment on weather conditions which invariably is the start of conversation between people. News items appearing in the daily paper awaken interest and give the opportunity to help through agencies such as the American Red Cross.

Self control was another point in the address. It was portrayed as one of the most important requisites regarding the associations with people.

The speaker closed with the thought that it is necessary to cultivate a personality that will associate with society on common ground.

Special Assembly.

E. H. Munson, International Y. M. C. A. secretary, addressed a special "A" assembly group Thursday morning in the school auditorium.

Mr. Munson vividly described the experience and events he participated in and witnessed during his prolonged stay in China. He extolled the numerous political, social and economic changes that the Oriental republic has undertaken in an effort to adapt modern civilization.

With a wide and varied experience with Chinese youth, Mr. Munson outlined the rapid strides the Chinese people have made in the betterment of their younger generation.

Interpersing his talk with several humorous anecdotes about the so-called backward emotions and expressions of the Chinese, the speaker held the attention of the senior assembly with a vividly-portrayed word-picture of China.

Mr. Munson told of the relapse in modern culture suffered by the Chinese and of the subsequent re-inheritance of western civilization. He outlined the great progress made in the educational and recreational fields with the program culminating in the sending of a Chinese Olympic squad to Berlin last summer.

The Chinese government's enforcement of compulsory education and the "Little Teacher Movement" were explained in detail. Mr. Munson predicted that affairs of the 20th century would center around the Far Eastern countries of China and Japan.

He described the Far Eastern political set-up knowingly and told of the problems confronting the Asiatic countries.

The speaker likened China to a "one way street" on which two lanes of traffic were flowing with the western idea of civilization colliding with the Asiatic culture and stated that a new Chinese nation would arise and regain its lost power and prestige.

Chinese youth has progressed and the Chinese nation will follow in the footsteps of the younger generation.

Mr. Munson's talk gave the students a clear insight into the many-sided aspects of China and refreshed the knowledge of the students in regard to the many-fold problems confronting the Chinese youth.

French Drama Groups.

Miss Fellows, in charge of the production of the French Club's dramatic revue to be presented on Friday, March 19, at the school auditorium has listed the following committees:

Stage committee—Paul Nosowich, John Snyder, Dan Lammon, John Robertson, Oscar Hawkey, Charles Teitelman and William Hawk; costume committee—Florence Hollingsworth, Eleanor Franz, Elizabeth Crue, Grace Cater and Elizabeth Gibson; property committee—Faith Glenwood, Olive Clearwater, Janet Boerker, Marguerite Farrell, Helen Hizen and Jane Allen; ticket committee—Robert Stone and William Hawk.

Corridor Committee.

The corridor committee for the period beginning March 11 and ending March 24 was posted and consists of the following members of the senior class:

Philip Fertel, chairman, with Louise Morse, Allan Evans and Mildred Watts as officers of the honorary board. Chairman Philip Fertel is more renowned for his basketball cavorting, being a member of the K. H. S. basketball quintet. This group will have control of the corridors and passageways of the high school, being appointed to their duties by Mr. Dumm, principal of Kingston High School.

Port Jervis Trip.

Thirty-five students, including several Alumni of K. H. S., traveled to Port Jervis by bus last evening to witness the final DUSO league basketball encounter played out of town by Kingston Athletic Association basketball team. The Athletic Association made possible the bus trip and a capacity crowd made the long jaunt, leaving the Y. M. C. A. at 6:15. The following students made the trip: Fred Buchanan, Ruth Hadler, Don Murphy, Helene Gregory, Rose Silverberg, Eleanor Franz, Virginia Luedtke, Betty Clark, Martha Jean Berastela, Betty Matthews, Nan Inalls, Donald Lane, Shirley Dunham, Olive Saebloff, Caroline Nickerson, Eleanor Lindhurst, Jay DeWitt, Joe Garland, Jack Harris, Frank Brooks, Peggy Brennan, Kay Chambers, George Schick, Marie Kubick, Anna Lane, Helene Lane, Albert Rose, Frank Murphy, Irving Rose, Arthur London, Eddie Beck, Kitty Atkins, Betty Gill, Jean Wright and Frank Adkins. The chaperones accompanying the students were Mr. Wilkes

A. A. Circus

The second annual edition of the Athletic Association Circus will be run off at the municipal auditorium Saturday, March 20. In order to avoid the congestion of last year's super-attraction, there will be two performances at 2:30 in the afternoon and the final at 7:30 in the evening. Tickets for this unique entertainment are now on sale at very nominal prices and may be procured from members of the K. H. S. Athletic Council or variety lettermen.

Kenneth Anderson, major dome of the high school's circus cavorters, has been putting his charges through their acrobatic maneuvers in a prolonged daily training period for the past month. Leo Rose, ringmaster, has his resounding vocal salutes working in great style and will attempt to put the professional big-top announcers to shame. Miss Eva Clinton has been drilling the high school band with Mrs. Smith, physical instructor, in charge of the famed girl marchers and dancing groups. The ushering duties will be handled by the busky society lettermen and the police matron and white-clad usherettes. All in all, it promises to be a gala affair.

Mr. Woodward, A. A. treasurer, has limited the number of tickets to be sold for each performance to 1,200 and the good old system of first come, first served, will be in order. Adults will be granted preference at the evening performance with the grammar school students expected to jam the afternoon skit. Last year's circus was an upsurge of success with the largest crowd ever to jam the auditorium in attendance. This season's show

SUNDAY MASS MEETING AT NEW BROADWAY AUDITORIUM

Another Sunday mass meeting will be held tomorrow night at the New Broadway Auditorium, 642 Broadway, when Carl Guenther, Bible lecturer, speaks on the subject, "2,000 Years of History in Advance."

The address will be illustrated with a new film drawn by Professor James Muir, famous archeologist of the University of Pittsburgh, which shows many unusual views of places in and findings from the lands of the East.

A song service including several unique features will begin at 7:45, preceding the lecture. Special music has also been arranged. Admission is free to all. Subjects for meetings on Monday, Thursday and Friday nights of next week will be announced during the service tomorrow.

would it take to present your message to

40,000 READERS

Allowing just a quarter of an hour for a call, it would take one salesman over three years—and ten salesmen almost half a year to present your message to 40,000 readers. BUT, with this newspaper as your salesman, you can reach 40,000 people every day throughout the year! And advertising space costs infinitely less than it costs to maintain a staff of wage-earners! IF you have salesmen, how much more effective you can make their message—and how much more far-reaching, by supplementing their efforts with the consistent hammering-away at 40,000 readers that ad space in this paper guarantees you! Better get down to facts, and let our representative call on you at once. He's at the other end of the wire—832, anticipating your call.

U. S. Government Issues Were Down

While the first installment of the new national defense loan was overwhelmingly oversubscribed yesterday, U. S. government issues were sharply on the highest volume in years, some issues losing over 10 cents a share. Commercial banks were heavy sellers. Corporate bonds were lower and stock prices were down. Commodities closed lower. Metal prices were improved, but tin broke as international committee raised second quarter quota.

Pennsylvania oil advanced another half cent a gallon. Several commodities advanced retail shoe prices. First quarter gross of electric and power industry is estimated at seven per cent ahead of last year, net at ten per cent ahead. Freight loadings last week totaled 24,127 cars, a less than seasonal volume.

A. R. estimated February gross at 21 Class 1 roads at six per cent ahead of year ago. January net income of Atlantic Coast Line was $1,443,285 vs. $662,346 in January, 1936.

Business of construction equipment department of Blaw-Knox during coming months will exceed that of recent years, said President W. J. Withrow.

The Fairbanks-Morse has adopted profit-sharing plan for employees under which they will participate in annual net income after provision is made for a seven per cent return on invested capital.

Jones & Laughlin announced 15 per cent pay boost for white collar employees making less than $2,500 annually. This is the sharpest increase for such employees of any current jumps yet made by a steel company.

DuPont advised department heads to adjust wages generally and white collar salaries, in line with recent wage jumps effected at several of its units.

Last week's auto production was highest since 1923 but the new wave of strikes cut output 20 per cent to about 100,000 units this week.

NEW BEAUTY SCIENCE STRESSED AT NEW YORK

Over 15,000 beauty culturists from all parts of the world are attending the four day 1937 International Beauty Shop Owners Convention & Exhibition at the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York.

Mrs. George D. Logan, local beautician who has attended this International Beauty Trade Show, says that the present day beauty science of keeping women young and attractive will accomplish more to keep the average husband home at the present time than all modern conveniences. Not even the radio, telephone or television are as important as the services of the beauty culture industry, which industry is now the third largest in the United States.

Alumni Week-end At Normal School

New Paltz, March 13.—Final arrangements have been made for Alumni week-end, March 12-14. Today from 1 o'clock until 3:30, Ko Sdon Ya entertained its alumni in the Ko Sdon Ya room with a skill portraying the progress of Ko Sdon Ya since its formation, following which games were played. The various societies will welcome their alumni at their respective houses.

From 3:30 until 5:00 the Outing Club sponsored a tea dance to which the faculty members, the alumni and entire student body were invited. There were no admission charges. At 7 o'clock in the evening the Girls Varsity will play the Alumnae and immediately following the Boys' team will play the alumni. After the games dancing will be enjoyed in the gymnasium.

The Delta Kappa held formal initiation Monday night in the chapter house. Thirteen freshmen and junior pledges of the fraternity were initiated. They were: Joseph M. Caffrey, Vincent O'Connor, Harold Ekloff, George Fench, John Farmer, Abraham Rosenthal, Charles Helms, Roy Silver, Lawrence Asher, Richard Perkins, Lester Mansfield, Oscar Hochberg and George Koerner. A stag dinner was held at Huling's Barn in Kingston after the initiation.

At the last meeting of Arts and Crafts, plans were made for their annual trip to New York. Those in charge of groups to plan and make articles are: Miss Elizabeth Josel, etching; Miss Esther Bensley, tie dye; Miss Edith Holt, leather; and Miss Ruth Bennett, weaving.

Delegates from the Paltzette and Nepona left on Thursday to attend the Columbia Press Conference in New York which includes March 11, 12 and 13. Representatives of nearly 1,000 schools, 2,000 editors and representatives will meet in the McMillan Theatre. The convention was formally opened on Thursday.

The delegation from New Paltz is Paltzette, Jean Marjan and Harold Weston. Nepona, Florence Brown, Gertrude Brion and Edward Doolan. The faculty members accompanying the students are: Miss Rebecca McKenna, Arthur Bruce Bennett and Dr. Roland G. Will. The purpose of the conference is to foster higher journalistic and literary standards among scholastic publications. Addresses will be given throughout the convention by representatives of metropolitan papers, press services and publishing houses and by advisers of school publications. Results of annual contests for magazines, newspapers and annuals will be announced during the convention. There are 959 entries this year, among them the Paltzette and Nepona. Schools are classified as to type, rating and enrollment.

The Kappas won their third successive game by beating the league.

Dr. Goldstein Hits At 5 Court Judges

Addressing a capacity audience at the Temple Emanuel, Friday night, Dr. Sidney Goldstein, associate rabbi and director of social service at the Free Synagogue in New York, blamed five men for standing in the way of social legislation that Congress is ready to pass and which the people of America "unquestionably want."

These five men, on the Supreme Court bench, he said, stand in the way of the will of the American people not because the laws advocated for social improvement of the country were in direct violation of the constitution, "but because they transgress an interpretation given by the five justices of the supreme court."

Four other justices give another interpretation as to the constitutionality of these laws but because of this court these laws pertaining to "social justice program" are invalid. Speaking as one of the committee picked to study the supreme court issue, the rabbi said, "This is not a partisan or even a political question. It is something more vital and profound."

"While other departments of government are ready to move ahead," he said, "the one department that seems to stand in the way is the judiciary. Whatever we are going to do about this depends on how long you and I are willing to wait."

Dr. Goldstein took up the merits of a constitutional amendment and the action advocated by President Roosevelt, and said he was in favor of the latter's proposal as only a "temporary means to an end."

Police Theory on Katonah Robbery

Katonah, N. Y., March 13 (AP)—Police developed a theory today that the Northern Westchester Bank, robbed twice within two weeks probably was looted of $18,500 yesterday by two bandits from Bridgeport, Conn., aided by a local "spotter."

Examination of the "escape" car, found early this morning in Bridgeport, not only uncovered the shotgun carried by one robber, but a box of shells from a Bridgeport department store and the box for an automatic pistol, sold to the National Guard armory in Springfield, Mass., in 1914, and believed stolen recently.

Would Be Mad—East View, N. Y., March 13 (AP)—Jail officials kept news of the successful duplication of his sorry feat in robbing the Northern Westchester Bank from Merle Vandenberg last night but expected he would learn of it today from a radio bulletin or tomorrow on the visitor's day grapevine.

Warden John Toucher ordered the radio in the cells turned off after the robbery yesterday and this morning care was taken not to tune the central set to a news broadcast.

"Merle probably would be pretty mad," one official said.

Vandenberg was sentenced to a long jail term next week.

In Stock Inquiry

At the last meeting, held on March 2, Ulster Grange had the pleasure of hearing from John J. Groves, of Port Jervis, who is president of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association, and Fire Chief Matus of the Port Jervis Dept. Both men spoke on fire protection. They outlined the method of procedure in the establishment of a fire company in an unincorporated area. Both these talks were greatly enjoyed by everyone interested in fire protection.

Also at this meeting Miss Donovan, representing the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., demonstrated one of the new electric cookers, by preparing a meal of meat loaf, scalloped potatoes, carrots, cake and coffee, all of which were greatly enjoyed.

The Grange received an invitation to attend church services at the Assumption Church at West Park on Sunday, March 2. The Grange moved to bring the initiation of the new members of the Assumption Church, the Rev. Arthur McKay, Aiken, on that date. Notice of this will appear in next Grange news.

Miss Earhart Is First To Try Equator Sunset Trail

By SAM JACKSON.

(NY) Feature Service Writer.

Oakland, Calif.—Amelia Earhart Putnam's goal is to make the first "real flight around the world."

If successful she will achieve these "firsts," according to her ground arrangements director, Commander W. T. Miller, always superintendent of the bureau of air commerce:

First woman to fly around the world.

First woman to fly from America to Australia.

First person to fly the globe at its greatest circumference—the equator.

"Other firsts," says Commander Miller, "have just flown around the North Pole."

4,000-Mile Itinerary.

Miss Earhart has chosen the hard way—circling the earth at its greatest circumference.

Her twin-engine Lockheed Vega sustains a 15,000-pound load and carries 1,500 gallons of gas with a 4,000-mile cruising range.

In the approximately 2,500-mile hop from Honolulu Island in the mid-Pacific to Lae, New Guinea, she will fly outside shipping lanes. While there is no place to bring down her land plane except the doubtful terrain of a race track at Rabaul, New Britain, at Lae she will use the field and shops that accommodate the planes serving the Bulolo gold fields in the interior of New Guinea.

Charting the Weather.

Intensive mapping of the weather is in progress in Oakland to help safeguard the first leg to Hawaii.

Pan-American Clipper service and mass naval flights have largely dispelled fear of this 2,410-mile hop, but aviation officials have not forgotten the tragedies attending the Dole race in 1927 and the last such flight when Lt. Charles C. P. Ulm and two companions were lost at sea.

Honolulu will not get to welcome the famous flyer as she will land at Wheeler field, Schofield barracks, in the interior of Oahu.

To "Initiate" Island Field.

At Howland Island Miss Earhart will be the first flyer to land on a new field. There are only 11 residents to welcome her—all boys from Hawaii—but the coast guard cutter Shoshone will stand by.

Flight navigator as far as Darwin, Australia, will be Captain Harry Manning, old sailing partner of celebrated Captain George Fried. Besides charting their course by sun and stars, the two will employ the radio range compass, a sort of "homing" device which guides the plane to any given radio station.

Two 50-watt radio sets will enable Miss Earhart to keep in touch with the world.

OLIVE BRIDGE.

Olive Bridge, March 13.—The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt entertained the Samsonville Ladies' Aid at dinner at the parsonage on Thursday.

The following ladies were present: Mrs. Jennie Myers, Mrs. Noah Barringer, Mrs. Floyd Barringer, Mrs. Clarence Dymond, Mrs. Frank Davis, Mrs. Mary Moore and daughter, Genevieve, Edith Allen and Mrs. Don Van Eetten.

Mr. and Mrs. Darville Boice and daughter, Elmer, Mrs. Bertha Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Davenport and daughter, Martha Jean, of Stone Ridge were dinner guests at the home of the Misses Ellen and Amanda Davidson Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Beesmer and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Davis and sons, Richard and Robert, enjoyed the pictures in Kingston on Monday evening.

Mrs. Elthea E. Quick spent the weekend past with her sister, Mrs. Simon Merriew, of Krumville.

The meeting by the agricultural conservation program, which was held in the I. O. O. F. Hall on Monday evening, was well attended.

A large number of relatives gathered Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Davis in honor of her birthday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Davis and sons, Richard and Robert, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Marshall and son, Harry, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gray and daughter, Lois, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Donohue and children, Joan and Bruce, Mrs. Elmer Finkler, Raymond Davis, Mr. and Mrs. H. Vollmer, Clyde Davis and the hostess, Mrs. Katie Davis. Mrs. Davis received many beautiful cards and gifts. Diversions of the evening were varied, checkers and pleasant conversation being among the most favored. The hour for luncheon came, when bountiful refreshments were served, consisting of sandwiches, pickles, cheese, coffee, cake and homemade ice cream. The beautifully decorated birthday cake was presented by the youngest daughter, Mabel.

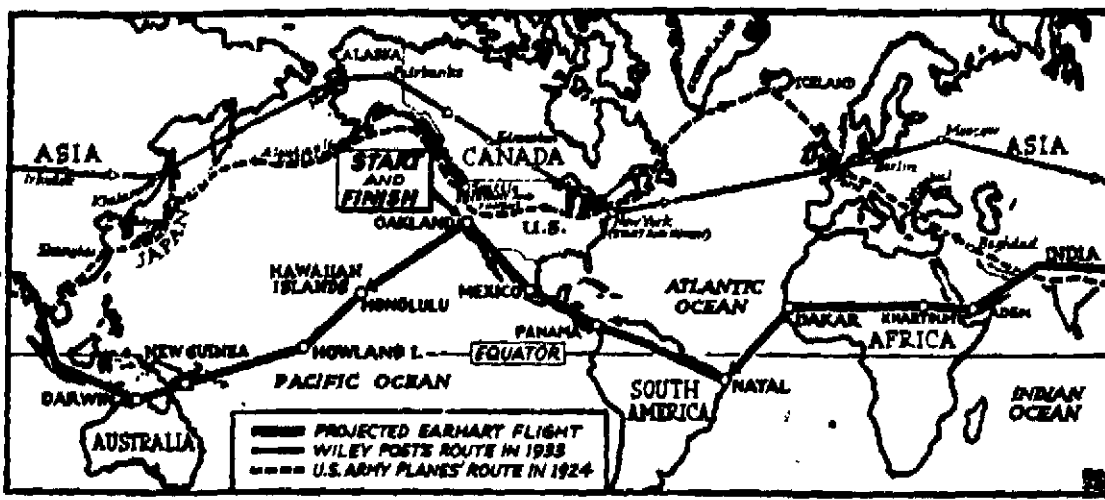

No Place Like Home

San Marino, Calif.—Residents of this city don't want any more—and that's not all.

They are proud of the city's reputation as a community of wealthy estates, few business houses and no theaters. When a building permit for a $50,000 movie house was presented to city councilmen, 25 citizens protested. Said a spokesman: "If the council lets down the bars on motion picture theaters soon there will be a cocktail bar and bowling alley to contend with."

Do It Ever So Humbly

Elizabeth, N. J.—Mrs. Anna De Schryver is a little skeptical about but saying—that there's no place like home. She was waxing the living room floor when a truck crashed into her front porch. The impact dislodged a lamp. The vase crashed lay on the floor.

ROUTE—Amelia Earhart proposes to circle the globe the "hard way."

Highland News

Mrs. Seaman Tells Meaning of Charm

Highland, March 13.—Defining charm as rarely meaning the same to two women, Mrs. Valentine Seaman of New York spoke to a group of high school girls and their mothers in the assembly room at school on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Seaman said, to some charm means the wearing of carrying tokens, but the dictionary meaning is of a sense of fitness, proportion, pleasing. She defined it as kindness, courtesy, tact, consideration of others, a balance poise. Beauty is not considered the only essential to charm, but consideration to elders are not to be overestimated. The speaker asked her audience to take time to be polite, inoffensive, not snobbish, striving to overcome self-consciousness, and to place the proper value on one's self.

Dress, appearance, voice, manner of speech, slang, all came under the subject of Charm. Mrs. Seaman's advice was to avoid malicious gossip, to be wide awake and a good listener. Charm is always an outward manifestation of an inward grace. It requires knowledge and the courage to use it. She was listened to attentively.

Following the talk adjournment was made to the art room, where a tea table with a large bouquet of daffodils and the general spring colors were carried out in the candies and napkins used. Mrs. A. Herbert Campbell and Mrs. Jesse D. Rose poured. Among those attending: Mrs. George Dean, Nancy Dean, Mrs. Harry Colyer, Olga Colyer, Mrs. Philip Wilkoff, Mrs. J. R. Melius, Mrs. Charles DuBois, Mrs. James Swift, Mrs. Victor Clearwater, Mrs. S. A. McCormac, Mrs. C. W. Rathbone, Mrs. A. Alfred Coutant, Doris Coutant, Mrs. Elmer Randall, Mrs. Joseph Rhodes, Mrs. Rose Seaman, Mrs. J. D. Rose, Mrs. A. H. Campbell, Mrs. Edward Jacobs, Mrs. D. S. Haynes, Ruth Haynes, Catherine Richards, Mrs. Parker Decker, Mrs. Beatrice Grinn, the Misses June Reynolds, Ann Taylor, Mary Castana, Martha Benesh, Marian Williams, Ruth Goldsmith, Marie Van Wormer, Mrs. Susan K. Ploss, Caytrina Columbe, Frances Williams, Eliza Raymond. The speaker was charmingly introduced by Miss Elizabeth Sale.

Mrs. Seaman comes from the Home Institute department of the Herald Tribune and spoke in December before the Women's Club at the home of Mrs. A. L. LeFevre and will speak soon at a meeting of the Study Club in New Paltz on "The Art of Entertaining."

Reception in April.

Highland, March 13.—Owing to the illness of the grand regent, Mrs. Vincent Gaffney, the vice regent, Mrs. Caroline Gaffney, presided at the meeting of Court Nilan, Catholic Daughters, on Wednesday evening. The court members voted to hold a reception on April 11 in the Highland Grange hall for the large number of new members to be received. A supper will follow the reception. Guests are expected from Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Marlborough. They also voted to hold a card party early in April and Mrs. Louis Gruner is chairman of that event.

Various Briefs.

Highland, March 13.—Mrs. George Dean entertains the Music Study Club Tuesday afternoon, when the program on songs is in charge of Miss Rose Symes. Nearly 100 persons attended the roast beef supper served by Vineyard Rebekah Lodge Thursday evening. The tables had been decorated by Mrs. Jacob Donoran in pink and green carnations and pots of tulips. At the meeting following the supper there were two applications for membership received. Mrs. Verlie Jennings is noble grand of the lodge.

The services in the Methodist Church will open Sunday with Sunday school at 9:45 a. m., followed by worship at 10:45 o'clock and sermon by the pastor, the Rev. S. A. McCormac. Epworth League meets at 6:15 o'clock and evening worship at 7:30 o'clock. The choir is rehearsing on the cantata, "The Story of Calvary," by Schaeffer. This will be presented at Easter. Captain Edward Smith, vice president of the Reservoir Air Corps, will be the speaker at the Lions Club meeting Monday evening at the Elms. Capt. Smith comes as a guest of the president, LeGrand Hartland, Jr.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Joel Smodes and Mrs. M. Toss will review a chapter of the book, Congo Crissum. The society are planning to hold a rummage sale in May. Mrs. Walter H. Seaman entertained a supper party last Sunday evening.

GRANTED INTERLOCUTORY DECREE OF DIVORCE.

Sadie Tucker of Highland has been granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from her husband, Clarence Tucker, by Justice Schrick of the supreme court. Plaintiff was represented by Michael Nardone in her action. By the decree plaintiff is permitted to resume her maiden name and the plaintiff may remarry but the decree prohibits the defendant from remarriage. They were married June 5, 1922, at Danbury, Conn., and the acts upon which the decree is granted are alleged to have taken place on July 29, 1936.

Society Woman Spicde

Philadelphia, March 13 (AP)—Mrs. Hale Holden, Jr., sports woman and society leader who returned from Florida Thursday, was found dead at her home in suburban Haverford, hanging from a noose made from the belt of a dress. Coroner Winslow J. Rushong of Montgomery today reported the death as suicide.

Husky Kid

Niagara Falls, N. Y.—Patrolman William Raymond noticed a 15-year-old boy was working too hard in pushing a baby carriage along the boulevard. He lifted the blanket. Found 250 pounds of lead. The boy was arraigned in Children's Court on theft charges.

Sergeant Hulse Gets Lockhart's Patrol

Sergeant Edward J. Hulse, who for the past year has been in charge of the Schenectady outpost, has been assigned to the Highland outpost to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sergeant John Lockhart, who for a long time was in charge of the State Trooper detail in the lower section of the county.

Sergeant Hulse, several years ago was stationed in Ulster county and at one time was motorcycle man on route 9-W. Later he returned to Kingston and for several years was attached to the barracks detail there. He has been a sergeant for the past 12 years. When Troop "C" was riding team was sweeping the state and taking all honors in riding he was a member of the team and led the first team riders.

Quarters in Highland have been rented by Sergeant Hulse and he will move his family to Highland today. Headquarters will be established in the Schenectady property on Vineyard avenue and within the next few days the records and telephone machine will be moved from the Lockhart home to the property which Sergeant Hulse has rented.

While stationed in this section several years ago Sergeant Hulse made many friends, who will be pleased to learn of his assignment again to Ulster county.

Volumes on World War Completed

war profits of the neutrals, the neutrals found themselves losers and winners. An instance of this was shown in the overcapitalized war industries which were dead weight when the war was over, unable to adjust to peace time usage.

The "final lesson" of the World War, Dr. Shotwell believed, was that no nation ever would be safe "so long as the technique of war is practiced by great nations." He called isolation and neutrality "dangerous concepts if they blind us to the fundamental fact that modern war is as contagious as the plague and that war industries are interdependent as peace industries," and he saw the road to peace leading alone through the League of Nations and international organization of labor.

Cost of Conflict Not Known
The enormity of the task made it compulsory that contributors be restricted to men who had seen the war unfold day by day, Dr. Shotwell explained. The writers were handicapped by the sheer mass of information at hand. Were all the documents that came out of the war packed side by side they would stretch 200 miles, Dr. Shotwell estimated, and were an individual to read through them, allowing a minute per page, he would be at the job 5,000 years.

Between the covers of the history lies data which would be a real war preventive if enough persons were to read, the chief editor believed.

Reviewing the salient points of the work, Dr. Shotwell said that neither the number of dead nor the world cost of the conflict would ever be known. But one inescapable conclusion, he said, was that "the capacity for destruction in the World War was as inferior to that of 1937 as the feudal forces at Agincourt in 1415 were to the military forces in 1914."

The lists of casualties prepared by the various war offices covered only a part of the mortalities, he asserted, and even if the losses could be calculated accurately the mere numbers would not mirror the depth of the tragedy.

May Be End of Race
Defending his thesis that the next war may literally be the war that will end both wars and the human race, he said that "any great power can produce now in a single afternoon" the 300 tons of explosives which were dropped on England during the war.

The vast economic study of the war showed that the costs of the conflict crept into every corner of the financial structure. To learn the true cost of the war it would be necessary to add to the original expenditure the losses sustained during the world depression, when the credit system collapsed. Unemployment costs and the expense of readjusting the markets, the broken real estate and stock markets, shattered currencies and vanished buying power all must be totaled in, he said.

Leaders Aided in Work
Among the collaborators with Dr. Shotwell were Gustav Bauer, ex-Chancellor of Germany; ex-President Thomas G. Masaryk of Czechoslovakia, Professor Max Sering, head of the Technical Economic Commission of the German War Office; M. Charles Rist, former vice-governor of the Bank of France; Baron Yoshio Sakatani, former Minister of Finance of Japan, and Sir William H. Beveridge, director of the London School of Economics.

Well Known in Ulster
Dr. Shotwell, who is also president of the Woodstock Historical Society, is well known in the county both as an educator, an advanced thinker and one possessed of a vast amount of community spirit. He is one of the staunchest advocates of a new centralized school system for Woodstock township.

Continental Body Issued $250,000,000 in Bills
Continental currency is the term applied to the forty issues of bills of credit or paper money put out by authority of the Continental congress from June 22, 1775, to November 20, 1778. In all, this currency amounted to a face value of $250,000,000, says the Rocky Mountain Herald.

The bills were promises to pay, based upon the pledge of congress to redeem them in "Spanish milled dollars, or the value thereof in gold or silver." No date for redemption was given.

The reason for their issuance was that the congress had no fiscal power and no authority to levy taxes. There was, moreover, not enough faith in the prospects of the revolution being successful for the congress to be able to borrow much money.
